This is one of the virtues that everyone should have. In our society everything moves fast. On TV shows, major problems are often resolved in half an hour. And with millions of people using e-mail, life is moving more and more at "Internet Speed." As a result, many people lack this, and they want to have instant satisfaction. In this fast moving society, this is very important to all of us.

What is popular today may be out of date tomorrow. Cars of today are different from those of the nineties. Our parents wore suits with wide trousers and dresses with padded shoulders; our trousers today are different. Style changes so quickly that one never knows if a particular dress is stylish or unfashionable. So if you like the clothes you're wearing, and the fashion changes – don't worry about it! You probably couldn't catch up anyway.

The room was so silent that one could have heard a pin drop. Kerry watched as the verdict was passed over to the judge. He opened the envelope. At the sound of paper tearing, her heart was thumping. The judge cleared his throat, and drew in a breath of air. "After hearing from both sides in this court, and listening to all the events throughout the past five years, the court has decided to rule in favor of Mr. Paul Martin," the judge announced. Kerry felt the ground fall from beneath her. She was speechless. Now all was lost.

Recent nations have sent more than thirty probes toward Mars, but only one-third of them have survived the trip. The second reason is cost. It costs about a billion dollars per kilogram to deliver robots to Mars. It would take at least fifty billion dollars to get a person to Mars. The last reason is the cosmic radiation that astronauts would absorb during the mission. Much of this radiation is blocked on Earth by the Earth's magnetic field. Mars has no magnetic field.

named after the Domesday Book which had been made to register the lands of the British in the 11th century. The project's purpose was to store information on life in Britain in the 1980s in the form of digital data. A lot of video clips, texts, maps, and pictures showing British people's lives were stored in dozens of laser discs. But now after 18 years, the data in the laser discs are unreadable. By contrast, the original Domesday Book is in fine condition. "The Domesday Project has become an example of the problem of _____," said a computer expert. "We're lucky Shakespeare didn't write on an old PC."

From children into teenagers, no one can teach us how to deal with peer pressure. As we enter adult life, no one can teach us how to fall in love and get married. As we enter into new stages in our lives, the advice of adults can be very helpful because they have already had similar experiences. But experiencing our own triumphs and disasters is really the only way to learn how to deal with life.

material. Picture the Olympic symbol with five interlocking rings. Like the Olympic rings, the five spheres of wellness overlap and interact. Most of us have experienced the way the spheres affect another. To live a happy life, you must have good health in all five spheres. Knowing which areas need improvement and which are already healthy is the key to increasing your happiness.

"Think globally, act locally." This action has never been more important than today. After the wars in Iraq, many of us struggle with how to build peace in the world today. The organization of local residents, Community Voices, invites all residents in this city to join us in a peace walk this Sunday. The walk will begin at 1:00 p.m. in front of City Hall and proceed along Route 140 to Foxboro Park. At the end of the walk a short peace ritual and a musical performance will be led by local artists. Refreshments will be served. Vans along the route will provide rides for those who wish to walk just part of the way.

Suddenly compact discs with titles such as "The Mozart Effect" and "Baroque for Baby" began appearing in stores. Many parents seemed to believe that if their babies heard Mozart's music, their IQs might increase. It was called "The Mozart Effect." But there is no evidence that playing Mozart to babies will raise their IQs. The original study in 1993 showed only that spatial-temporal abilities of college students who participated in the experiment temporarily increased. And no one else has been able to show the same result. Even the researchers who performed the study never claimed it would increase a baby's IQ. If you want to buy "The Mozart Effect" CDs, just go ahead. But it is foolish to expect "The Mozart Effect" to be real.

Be ready to learn about and observe differences. The differences you observe while abroad will undoubtedly enrich your understanding of your own culture. Try to learn as much as possible about local customs, beliefs, and language. Talk to others who have been to your destination and seek opportunities to see movies and read up on the country and culture.

The countryside where I grew up is very isolated. You can drive along the seaside road for miles without seeing another car. In all directions you look at, it looks like a breathtaking vista. The view is especially dramatic, with giant dark cliffs rising out of the water. Such a remote environment is a perfect place to relax. It brings out the artist in me. I often take my paints and a canvas and try to capture the exciting feel of the shoreline.

Steve Blass was a great pitcher in 1972. In fact, he was one of the very best. One year later, he was on his way out of baseball. Did he get hurt? No. Only one thing changed: he lost his confidence. He said, "When it was gone, it was gone for good." He started thinking about all the things that could go wrong, and suddenly they did. Steve Blass no longer believed he could be a major league pitcher, and before he knew it, he no longer was a major league pitcher. The ability to do anything must be accompanied by the belief that we can do it. If you don't believe in yourself, you won't be able to perform.
